

What Is All This Talk About Stem Cells?

Stem cells are present in your bloodstream at all times. These stem cells, called "circulating stem cells", are responsible for the regeneration and repair of damaged tissue whether from injury, disease or the effects of aging and lifestyle choices.

Now researchers have discovered natural ways to enhance the performance of these stem cells in your body to boost its ability to restore and maintain health.

What Does Stem-Kine Do?

Stem-Kine, mobilizes the body's recruitment of stem cells from the bone marrow into the bloodstream.

Once they are circulating in the bloodstream, stem cells have a natural homing capability to proceed to the point of injury or disease and contribute to the healing process.

About Healing Stem Cells

RegenCyte is a license distributor of Stem-Kine.

Healing Stem Cells is our Stem-Kine brand - the same formula, same healing potential of enhanced circulating stem cells.

RegenCyte focuses on online education about the healing power of circulating stem cells and the marketing and sale of what we believe is the leading natural, stem cell circulation enhancement product on the market today.

With strong affiliations and ongoing guidance from leading experts in the stem cell industry, we were skeptics of the power of natural stem cell circulation enhancement until we saw the peer-reviewed and published results of recent and ongoing scientific studies.

After our own analysis, we selected Stem-Kine as the kind of clearly innovative and competitively superior product that we wanted to make available to consumers.

We continue to support ongoing scientific studies of Stem-Kine's potential. We will ensure you receive the latest information related to the healing power of circulating stem cells and the ability of natural products to enhance their potential and improve your health.

Stem Cells Are The Body's Natural Healing Mechanism

Your Stem Cells, Your Health

Introducing STEM-KINE capsules, a natural product that increases the number of circulating stem cells.

Stem-Kine

Kine a Greek suffix meaning - to move; motion; division

How Does It Work?

Scientists, from leading universities, demonstrated that oral supplementation of Stem-Kine significantly increased the number of circulating stem cells “CSCs” for an extended period of time.

There is an increasing body of scientific literature surrounding CSCs and their effects on general health, wellness and regeneration.

Scientific studies have shown a correlation between the number of CSCs and certain diseases or conditions leading to scientific postulation that these cells may play an important role in preventing and/or fighting various health conditions.

Stroke: Following a stroke, individuals with a higher number of CSCs recover better than individuals with fewer CSCs.

Smoking: Smokers have impaired CSCs, which increase with cessation and decrease with resumption of smoking.

Myocardial Infarction: Increasing the number of CSCs with G-CSF leads to a therapeutic effect in cardiac regeneration.

Alzheimer's Disease: Individuals with Alzheimer's have reduced levels of CSCs. A correlation exists between the decreased number of CSCs and the severity of the disease.

Migraines: Patients with migraine headaches have decreased CSCs. A correlation exists between the decreased number of CSCs and the severity of migraines.

Erectile Dysfunction: Patients with erectile dysfunction caused by overweight have reduced number of certain circulating stem cells.

Individuals with a reduced number of CSCs may benefit from enhancing their stem cell health through the use of Stem-Kine natural supplements.

The Science Behind Stem-Kine

Stem-Kine was developed by leading stem cell researchers who have collectively published over 100 articles in peer-reviewed journals and who have been involved in administering adult stem cell therapies to over 600 patients.

Stem-Kine capsules are a patent-pending, proprietary blend of natural substances optimized for stimulating stem cell mobility.

One bottle, contains 60 capsules equaling a typical one month's supply.

About Stem-Kine

Stem-Kine is not a drug. Rather it is a food supplement that increases the number of circulating stem cells through a proprietary combination of ingredients that cause the release of stem cells from their source, the bone marrow. Stem-Kine is a powerful stem cell supplement. Stem-Kine capsules are a naturally derived product that stimulates the body's own healing mechanisms.

Stem-Kine contains all natural ingredients and has no reported side effects.
