MARDI GRAS PARTY AT THE MARRIOTT DENVER TECH CENTER HOTEL BRINGS BOURBON STREET NORTH

Denver Tech Center hotel announces special Mardi Gras party that brings the excitement of New Orleans to Colorado residents.

Denver, CO – New Orleans and Bourbon Street may have made Mardi Gras parties famous (or notorious) for lavish costumes, festive music and all-night celebrations; however, the Denver Marriott Tech Center Hotel knows that other parts of the country enjoy the celebration as well. That's why, on March 5, 2011, this Greenwood Village, Colorado hotel has decided to throw a Mardi Gras celebration of its own that would make even Louisiana-natives proud. The party will take place in the Denver Marriott Tech Center Hotel's atrium.

Tickets to the event cost $25 for general admission and a few sets of beads, but those who wish to truly get into the Mardi Gras spirit can opt for the $49 VIP ticket, which includes beads, a special VIP area, party favors, cash bar and a special Mardi Gras-themed item. Regardless of the ticket choice, guests should anticipate a lively atmosphere with live music and DJs. Jesters and stilt walkers patrol the party and guarantee the fun. Partygoers are strongly encouraged to dress festively in costumes and masks; furthermore, the best male and female costumes will be crowned the king and queen of Mardi Gras.

If guests prefer to watch the festivities rather than participate, the hotel offers 140 balconies overlooking the event. Rooms are still available at the Denver Marriott Tech Center Hotel and are ideal for those who wish to stay near the party.
