

MAURO MONTANARO

Chief Executive Officer (CEO), Movolo

Mauro Montanaro is the new Chief Executive Officer of Movolo

Prior to joining Movolo he was the CEO of Fox Mobile Group, the global leader in mobile content distribution and production, and a wholly-owned entity of News Corporation. Mauro was responsible for leading Fox Mobile Group and its business units worldwide.

Prior to joining Fox Mobile Group, Mauro worked for Nokia for more than 10 years where he served in a number of executive and senior-level positions. Most recently, he served as Vice President of Sales and General Manager for the Asia-Pacific region where he oversaw sales, marketing and operations for the region. Under Mauro's leadership, Nokia's market share increased significantly and achieved $6.6 bn sales in the region. He also was credited for building and growing all aspects of the content and services business in the Asia Pacific region to supplement handset sales.

During his tenure at Nokia, Mauro also served as the head of the Multimedia Group for the Asia Pacific region where he oversaw the launch of the N-series product category, Nokia's first multimedia, 3G and camera smartphones.

Mauro holds a master's degree in international law (JJD) from the Universita' di Bologna, Italy, and an M.B.A. from the Helsinki School of Economics and Business Administration, Finland, in conjunction with the Manchester Business School, United Kingdom and he was a lecturer for BBAs in 1993-1995

Mauro also is a professional singer having released five rock alternative albums and worked in music video production in Italy and the U.S. for six years. His key achievement in the video industry is to have discovered and casted Angelina Jolie in an Italian production in 1993

(<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=yIGwn1iZsZs>)