let's talk

Starting a conversation with an adorable stranger isn't easy. Where do you begin? Dating experts agree that breaking the ice is easier with a conversation starter: a bestseller, baseball cap or a playful dog — anything that gives them an easier way to start chatting with you. What about wearing a clever tshirt, carrying a water bottle, or dressing your pup in a fun tshirt to get their attention? Flirtatious, flattering, and fun, a SingleTease® products connect singles face-to-face. From fun cards to tshirts to water bottles, break the ice with our clever conversation starters!

about us

Tamera Lawrence

Kristin Moore

Welcome to SingleTease!

We launched SingleTease on March 1, 2007 because we were frustrated with the dating scene and hearing our friends complain how hard it is to meet other singles. We decided to create clever conversation starters to help us and other available singles meet face-to-face.

Every single (unattached) person needs help meeting other singles. If this were not true, online dating would not be a 700 million dollar industry. It's like the card game Solitaire, all the cards laying on the table look alike, you know there's a match in the deck somewhere, but it takes turning over many cards, a good memory, patience, time and a bit of luck to find the match.

We aren't comparing online dating to a card game, but it's a simple analogy to an ongoing problem for singles...how do you know who is available let alone a match?

What if you could wear or carry something that let other singles know you were available...an icebreaker, a conversation starter that would make life so much easier when meeting in person? That's when we came up the idea of developing fun, clever messages that say you are 1) available and 2) approachable.

Our concept is refreshingly distinct, in contrast to the explicit, cheezy products developed by other companies for singles. Twenty-five years of combined experience in graphic design, conceptual strategy and branding for nonprofit, retail and corporate clients plus our personal dating frustrations naturally led us to create SingleTease.

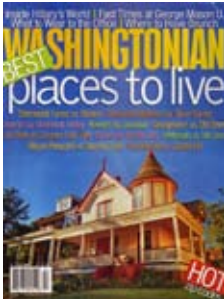

At SingleTease we enjoy our work and making a difference in the lives of all singles!
