

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

myBIGearth Celebrates Earth Day with New Shared Community Site

Community site offers holistic and environmental awareness, events and services

Jupiter, FL – April, 22 2011 – myBIGearth (mybigeearth.com) celebrates Earth Day with the official launch of their site and services. myBIGearth is an online community offering information and events on self-improvement, holistic health and nutrition as well as social and environmental awareness. myBIGearth is a global grassroots project consisting of personal, social and environmental evolutionists focused on creating positive global change.

“We knew the quickest way to impact change would through applying technology to share motivating, inspirational and action driven information.” says Stacey Stockman, founder of myBIGearth.

Featuring today’s most advanced communication and community focused technologies; myBIGearth expands its outreach through RSS distribution, backlinks, social networking, video promotion, blogging and event broadcasting. These technologies not only make it easy for readers to engage and share information, but also provide a reliable network for those looking for additional avenues to promote their message, product or service.

For more information, please visit www.mybigeearth.com

About myBIGearth

Since 2005, myBIGearth has been assembling a team of personal, social and environmental evolutionists whose mission is to create a global community to bring about positive growth and change. myBIGearth offers information and events on self-improvement, holistic health and nutrition as well as social and environmental awareness. Through the use of advanced communication technologies, myBIGearth creates a community supporting empowerment, motivation and inspiring action.

Media Contacts

Stacey Stockman myBIGearth Founder sstockman@sylutions.com
(888) 663-1110

Susie Siedler
myBIGearth Editor
editor@mybigeearth.com (888)663-1110

www.mybigeearth.com

www.mybigeearth.com