

Bond International Software Releases VCG StaffSuite Staffing Software with Industry's First Integration for Automated Voice and Text Messaging through Call-Em-All

Bond VCG StaffSuite® staffing software's new integration with partner Call-Em-All improves staffing company efficiency with automated voice and text messages to contingent employees.

Atlanta, GA, April 20, 2011. Bond International Software announced today that the latest version of Bond VCG StaffSuite enables staffing firms to automatically send SMS texts or voice messages to their contingent employees as needed through an integration with Call-Em-All, a leading vendor of voice and text messaging services. By automating such tasks as calling or texting candidates and employees regarding job openings, staffing companies can reduce their time-to-fill ratios.

Users of StaffSuite staffing software can create on-demand or frequently-used lists of recipients for automated voice or text messaging through Call-Em-All for a variety of purposes, such as:

- Job fill positions open
- Missing timesheet requests
- Timesheet entry reminders
- Database cleanup/data validation
- Associate availability confirmation
- Holiday reminders

Steve Taylor, President and CEO of Bond VCG, said “StaffSuite’s ability to improve operating efficiency in staffing firms of all sizes is well-proven. This integration with Call-Em-All for automated voice and text messaging enables savvy staffing firms to leverage their internal resources to focus on face-to-face customer service while automating the more routine tasks of their everyday business.”

Brad Herrmann, President of Call-Em-All, said, “The Call-Em-All team is thrilled to partner with VCG. In seconds, VCG’s clients can now easily create new automated messages and review results of previous contacts without ever leaving StaffSuite. VCG is the first in the staffing industry to implement both of Call-Em-All’s services -- group calling and group texting. Associates can now choose to be contacted by either voice or text message allowing your clients to operate faster and more efficiently. As more and more businesses embrace SMS, I applaud VCG’s development team for being the first to provide their clients with a powerful and professional voice and text messaging solution.”
