* Datamyne covers the U.S., China, India, Japan, Latin America (including Mexico and the Mercosur and CAFTA blocs, as well as Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, and Venezuela), and the EU's intra and extra trade. Based on World Trade Organization estimates, this trade accounts for approximately 57% of global exports and 68% of global imports by value.

► MAKING TRADE DATA WORK FOR YOU

With Datamyne, you have access to the latest available information about what is being bought and sold by whom in global trade encompassing the U.S., the EU, and key Asian and Latin American markets.

From import-export trends to the tally of cargos for individual shippers or consignees, right down to the details of each transaction as recorded on the bill of lading – you are just clicks away from information you can use to evaluate new markets, identify prospective customers, monitor long-distance business arrangements, locate new suppliers, and track your competition.

Build queries by selecting fields and entering your search criteria. Your query is displayed for review and editing in the Current Search Query box

Use Total by to sum up search results by the field of your choice – totaling all transactions for shipper (as here), consignee, carrier, or country of origin

Click on the hyperlinks within displayed results to drill down to underlying details – such as all shipments for an individual shipper

Click on the hyperlinked date of any record to see the logistical details and parties to the trade on the bill of lading

Quickly download your findings to Excel spreadsheets

Select the slice of the database you want to search: Set time frames, choose original bills or bills with Datamyne added-value fields

EMAIL ALERT

Click Save/Create Alert to save your search query for fast retrieval of the most current data ... and set up email alerts that notify you when new shipments arrive

We'll discuss your business objectives and help you find the Personalized Subscription Plan that works best for your company. Among the options: 12- or 24-month terms, single or multiple users, single market or global views.
