MOSS BUILDING & DESIGN LAUNCHES HANDYMOM 101SM SERIES
Nova Moms Learn DIY Skills To Tackle Smaller Jobs Around The House

CHANTILLY, VA – May 18, 2011 - Moss Building & Design is proud to announce a new workshop program targeting moms' groups in Northern Virginia whose members are ready to learn how to handle some of the smaller items on their home improvement wish lists. Each HandyMOM 101SM workshop includes a presentation by a Moss pro, followed by a hands-on station where attendees try their newly-acquired skills under Moss's watchful eye.

The first HandyMOM 101SM workshop was held in Oakton and taught participants how to select, layout, and install tile. Hostess Jeanine Miller said "The Tile-It program was great. I feel reasonably confident that I can now tile my mudroom and be pleased with the outcome!" Other choices for the 2011 series are:

- Hang It - how to hang heavy things so they are level and will stay put
- Patch It - how to make large and small drywall patches that won't show
- Caulk It - everything you ever wanted to know about why, when, where, how to caulk
- Fix a Leak - simple steps to stop a dripping faucet

Jason Hampel, President of Moss explains the company's thinking behind the HandyMOM 101SM program, "Moss has built its reputation by being a company that cares about its customers and their homes. Now we're extending that care to the community by helping women tackle jobs they might have thought they needed a professional to handle. Empowering participants with the knowledge, skills, and confidence to do the small jobs themselves is the best way to start a relationship based on trust."

Moss also recently announced the creation of Moss Home Services, designed to fill the gap between full remodeling projects and the issues homeowners can handle without a professional. With the launch of the HandyMOM 101SM program, the company feels its spectrum of home improvement service offerings is complete.

More information about options and how to schedule a workshop are available on Moss's website.
