

Press Release: The Avenger

Title:

The N-Control Avenger XBOX 360 Accessory Promises to Revolutionize Gameplay in Call of Duty: Black Ops

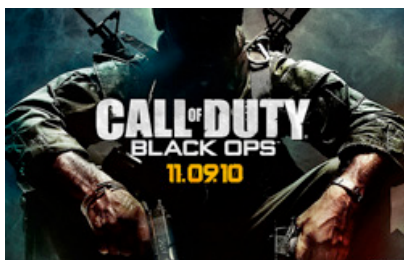

Summary:

iControl Enterprises, LLC. releases the N-Control Avenger, a state-of-the-art gaming accessory for the Microsoft XBOX 360® controller. The Avenger accelerates the user's reaction time and provides gamers with advanced rapid-fire capabilities. On November 9th, Activision® will release their highly-anticipated title, Call of Duty®: Black Ops.™ Gamers will be looking for a tactical advantage, and the Avenger is poised to provide the upper hand.

Body:

Miami, FL (PRWeb) November 5, 2010 -- iControl, LLC., a new and innovative gaming accessory manufacturer, has released an accessory for the Microsoft (NASDAQ: MSFT) XBOX 360™ controller, which is guaranteed to provide users with "the ultimate gaming advantage." The N-Control Avenger claims to be "the most sophisticated secret weapon in the gaming industry," and gamers everywhere are looking forward to its official release this week.

The Avenger is an external adapter that houses the existing XBOX 360 controller to enhance gameplay. This accessory tightly grips the controller's exterior surface, providing an immersive gaming experience through an intuitive user-interface. "It enhances the gamer's manual dexterity and situational awareness by improving accuracy and reaction-time," says David Kotkin, lead designer of The N-Control Avenger. "This sophisticated accessory is specially engineered for those who want to push their gaming abilities to new heights." The Avenger allows for rapid, fluid movements between individual buttons and analogue sticks, allowing gamers to access nine functions simultaneously. The adapter comes equipped with a stabilizer tripod, high-precision tension straps, hair-triggers, and sensitivity adjusters, which can be fine-tuned like a musical instrument.

The Avenger's release date coincides with the launch of Activision's groundbreaking game, Call of Duty: Black Ops. Activision Publishing, Inc. (NASDAQ: ATVI) and award-winning developer Treyarch will position gamers behind enemy lines in this latest installment of the immensely popular, first-person shooter series. Mark Lamia, Studio Head for Treyarch, comments on the excitement behind the game's official release: "We can't wait for our community to experience Call of Duty: Black Ops." Lamia adds, "We have focused our entire studio on this game, with dedicated multiplayer, single-player and co-op teams creating the most intense, gripping and riveting experience possible for our fans on all fronts."

The N-Control Avenger hopes to enhance the gameplay in Call of Duty: Black Ops and other popular titles, such as Halo Reach, Madden NFL 11, Fallout: New Vegas, and Need for Speed: Hot Pursuit. The accessory can be ordered online from the N-Control website for $59.99.

For more information, please visit the <http://www.avengercontroller.com>