E-Discovery Expert, David Moncure, Joins Donovan & Watkins Team

Houston, TX – May 23, 2011

Willis Group announced today that David Moncure joined its Donovan & Watkins subsidiary as Executive Vice President of E-Discovery Services and General Counsel. Previously, Mr. Moncure practiced as e-discovery and data privacy counsel at Shell Oil Company after beginning his career as an e-discovery litigation attorney with Fulbright and Jaworski. Mr. Moncure's recognized industry expertise will be a critical factor in the successful execution of Donovan & Watkins' e-discovery services strategic roadmap.

Mr. Moncure possesses a unique breadth and depth of e-discovery experience developed as a result of immersion and "ground up" involvement in the emerging space. His career maps closely to the inception and growth of the industry. Over his career, he has: participated as a member on national e-discovery counsel teams; developed and implemented preservation notice programs, litigation readiness programs and records management programs; drafted privacy policies; led e-discovery training and awareness sessions for corporate audiences; and developed legal processes and protocols relative to in-house e-discovery technologies. Mr. Moncure is a frequent speaker and contributor to industry publications and an active member of Sedona Conference Working Group 6 (International Electronic Information Management, Discovery, and Disclosure).

Willis Group President and CEO, Mark Willis, believes Mr. Moncure's knowledge will be instrumental in developing capabilities that meet both tactical and strategic needs of clients relative to electronically stored information. "David brings an immense understanding of e-discovery and information management theory which is balanced by a wealth of experience in real world application. This kind of practical knowledge is crucial to applying theory in the development of relevant solutions for our clients." said Mr. Willis.

Mr. Moncure is charged with management and growth of e-discovery related offerings and consulting services across the EDRM lifecycle. Mr. Moncure stated that "Donovan & Watkins' strategic expansion into the e-discovery services market presents a great opportunity to lead a staff of experienced project managers working across a wide variety of e-discovery related projects. We are excited about our present phase of development which brings our clients tremendous value along the EDRM lifecycle."
