WORLD TECHNOLOGY LEADER ALIGNS WITH TAMPA BASED SYSTEMS INTEGRATION FIRM

Decision based on mission critical needs of client: the United States Government

Tampa, FL, May 23, 2011 – Cybrix Group, a systems integration and consulting firm, announces it is partnering with HP Enterprise Services to provide enterprise-wide data center management support services to U.S. Special Operations Command (USSOCOM). Under the contract, Cybrix will help manage USSOCOM’s global enterprise IT server and storage computing environment, which provides coverage for USSOCOM Headquarters, all Component Commands and all subordinate commands.

Selected by HP Enterprise Services, who was recently awarded the SITEC Datacenter Tower Contract, Cybrix Group will be providing support for hardware & software to USSOCOM Headquarters located at MacDill Air Force Base and engineering and testing support in the Systems Integration Facility (SIF). Cybrix Group will also assist HP Enterprise Services in developing and executing test plans, reporting and tracking findings. Cybrix Group’s extensive working relationship with SOCOM combined with their data center expertise and corporate experience testing and evaluating existing and new technologies made them prime candidates for providing the additional support that HP needed to make the project a success.

“We are honored to partner with such a prestigious, world-wide technology leader such as HP.” states Keith Vassalotti, Chief Operating Office of Cybrix Group. “We are even more honored to be providing this type of support to SOCOM. By helping to ensure that they have the ability to utilize the most cutting edge technologies available to them, they are ultimately better able support our troops and maintain our country’s National Security. Being on the winning team for this contract is a tremendous opportunity for Cybrix Group to continue to expand our presence within the Special Operations community. It also gives us another opportunity to do what we love to do: work on innovative technology solutions that make a difference”.
