Plus Computer Solutions Ltd. Leverages Sage ERP Accpac for PLH Aviation's Long Term Gain

Airline refueling operation benefits from a scalable financial management and accounting solution implemented by Sage business partner Plus Computer Solutions.

Vancouver, British Columbia—May 31, 2011—Plus Computer Solutions has implemented a long-term scalable business management solution based on Sage ERP Accpac for PLH Aviation Services, a successful corporation specializing in the management of airport refueling operations. Plus Computer Solutions is a premier Sage Authorized Partner specializing in the Sage ERP Accpac and SageCRM family of products.

PLH Aviation Services chose Sage ERP Accpac as its business management solution shortly after its inception in 1988, and engaged Plus Computer Solutions as its business partner in 2000. Over years of expansive growth, the solution has scaled to meet the needs of PLH Aviation, adapting to its changing demands.

Glen Mund, president of Plus Computer Solutions, said: "While the typical company changes business management software every seven years, PLH Aviation has been able to leverage its technology investment over decades, saving countless dollars in conversion costs. This is possible thanks to the broad flexibility of Sage ERP Accpac and its expansive suite of modules and companion products."

As its business needs have changed, PLH Aviation Services was able to expand its use of the software, adding new modules and new functionality. For example, it added the Multi-Currency module to support its sister company's operation because it deals in US dollars. The sister company of PLH Aviation Services, located outside of British Columbia, can access Sage ERP Accpac remotely and perform their own data entry of accounts payable and sales invoices.

Referring to the long-term partnership between PLH Aviation Services and Plus Computer Solutions, Bob Chin, manager of accounting services, said: "It is invaluable to have a firm that understands your business. With Plus Computer Solutions it is a collaborative partnership – we really feel like they are working for the good of our company. Many times they have made valuable suggestions for ways we can optimize our system to save time and increase our efficiency."
