Because people all over the country are still anticipating summer trips, it may be difficult for some to look ahead; after all, summer months may seem more appealing than the cold months of November and December. But while the weather may be colder, the fun and attractions are certainly not hibernating. In fact, some would argue that Boston becomes more exciting the colder it gets. Basketball and hockey games take place at TD Garden, the Boston Ballet performs perennial favorites like The Nutcracker, and annual tree lighting ceremonies celebrate the coming of Christmas. Wintertime performances this year include the Blue Man Group and a special Radio City Christmas Spectacular. The hotel's close proximity to the MBTA blue line public transportation system makes reaching any of these events a breeze.

With rates starting at $99/night, there may not be a better time to book Boston holiday specials. Guests should book their rooms today and start planning their holiday adventure.
