

Help us Write a Happy Ending to Our Film...

"Music in itself is healing." --Billy Joel

We couldn't agree more. Living to Play Again is the story of one man's lifelong love affair with the guitar, how health problems robbed him of his passion and vitality, and the power of hope, love, and friendship to restore them in all of us.

Benton Duncan learned his first chords from his great aunt's guitar, beginning a journey that took him around the country and introduced him to hundreds of new friends. Decades later, ailing from a serious heart condition, he found himself unable to find the strength and motivation to pick up his guitar. So, in an effort to urge him rediscover his creativity and experience joy once more, and help raise awareness of heart health around the country, his niece – filmmaker Debra Amerson – decided to try something unconventional and arrange a "play date" with 19-year-old guitar prodigy Cullen Gray...

The result is an idea for a multi-generational jam session that turned into a family reunion, a reunion that turned into a concert, and a concert that's becoming a film that can inspire us all to take better care of ourselves and the ones we love.

Living to Play Again* is a labor of love, but we can't finish it alone. This isn't a film put together by millionaire producers, or one that has the backing of powerful Hollywood agents. We're counting on grants and donations from men and women just like you – people who want to make one man's dream come true and change the way we all think about heart health at the same time.

It doesn't matter whether you can donate a few dollars or hundreds; every gift brings us just a little bit closer to a finished documentary. From transportation to sound equipment and crew meals, we're doing everything we can to keep costs down, you can be sure that your donation will go directly towards funding the project that's founded and hope.

Want to help us out? Giving your gift is easy. Simply click the secure link below and follow the directions on the online donation page:

<http://www.livingtoplayagain.com>

Any contribution you make to Living to Play Again is tax-deductible. In addition, to show you our gratitude, any donation over $10 qualifies you for a digital download of the film, complete with a studio-quality soundtrack. So, whether you have a love for music, know someone who does, or just want to do your part to contribute to better heart health and awareness in America, Living to Play Again is a great project to support.

Thank you for your gift, and for helping us to show the world that we can change the way we care for ourselves, and each other. <http://www.livingtoplayagain.com>