

DocuLex and the National Joint Powers Alliance (NJPA)

Streamlined purchasing for municipalities and not-for-profits

DocuLex is proud to be a preferred provider of Electronic Document Management Software solutions with the National Joint Powers Alliance (www.njpacoop.org). NJPA members and future members can now source a quality Cloud or Server-based document management solution without having to issue an RFP!

Who is NJPA?

NJPA is a Member-driven service cooperative with a membership exceeding 35,000. NJPA offers a multitude of products, equipment and service opportunities to education, government and other non-profit entities. Nationally and even beyond NJPA offers Contract Purchasing solutions that enable businesses and organizations to work smarter, bolder and better. NJPA empowers and enables a business and service alliance between buyers and suppliers to drive successful purchasing programs.

Today and in to the future, DocuLex can offer NJPA members and future members a streamlined purchasing approach for the very best in indexing, capturing and managing paper based and electronic files with the Archive Studio Content Management Software Suite as part of the NJPA schedule.

Archive Studio, an all-inclusive suite, offers a full range of scalable products, servicing everything from basic content management needs to enterprise-wide document management, business process workflow, records management, email archiving and distributed or centralized image capture. Archive Studio's WebSearch document management module provides 100% browser based capabilities from a single server installation, and is also available in the Cloud/Software as a Service.

Get started with the DocuLex Cloud service for as little as $39 per user per month.

I am not an NJPA member - How do I join?

Membership is easy, with no cost or obligation. The online application takes a few minutes to fill out and you are on your way to approved purchasing of many types of quality equipment, hardware and software, all in one place.
