

Tigr—the easiest way to develop rich mobile applications that consume services from the Cloud

Discover Tigr, an easy-to-use, cloud-based mobile application development and integration platform. Tigr's Mobile Plug-in Architecture (MPA) allows developers to easily connect to and consume network assets. Tigr creates finished, fully functional mobile applications. Write apps once - deploy on any device - reducing development effort and improving time-to-market.

Tigr's drag-and-drop visual designer exposes network assets, cloud services, and data plug-ins in an easy to use manner. Create and publish cross-platform mobile applications leveraging HTML5, CSS, JavaScript, and jQuery Mobile.

Tigr's real-time collaboration features allow developers to harness the contributions from other development teams, business analysts, and customer focus groups to move from prototype to profit in no time.

Features

- Visual Designer: User-friendly drag-and-drop editor leverages a rich set of UI components and provides visual binding between UI and data sources, cloud services, or network assets.
- Collaborate: Tigr is the only platform that provides real-time collaboration between development teams and business users and supports the full development life cycle from prototypes to production-ready applications.
- Seamless integration: Visual data binding between UI components and data services, network services and network assets. Seamlessly connect to REST, Web, or cloud services.
- Write Once – Deploy Anywhere: Deploy on all of the major platforms (iOS, Android, webOS, Windows Phone, and BlackBerry).
- Cloud-Ready: Integrates seamlessly with cloud services and data.
