Homes.com Releases Mortgage Calculator App for Android Consumers can quickly calculate whether they should rent or buy

NORFOLK, Va., October 12, 2011— Homes.com, a division of Dominion Enterprises, announced today the release of its Mortgage Calculator application for the Android. The Homes.com Mortgage Calculator follows a very successful release for iPhone earlier this year. It joins Homes.com's already extensive mobile suite, including home search applications for iPhone, BlackBerry, Windows Phone 7 and Android users.

Homes.com's Android Mortgage Calculator app offers an assortment of calculators to help home buyers and renters searching for their next home. The "Buy or Rent" calculator determines the home seeker's best financial option based on factors like monthly rent, estimated home purchase price, years the home will be owned, and taxes. It is the first of its kind offered for the Android platform.

Other calculators available in the app include:

- A debt-to-income calculator that offers feedback on whether now is a good time to buy based on the consumer's financial circumstances
- A monthly mortgage payment calculator
- A mortgage refinance calculator

All calculators are seamlessly integrated into Homes.com's property search, linking consumers to properties for sale or rent in their local market along with real estate professionals connected to Homes.com.

"The release of Homes.com's Android Mortgage Calculator app is in direct response to Android users' requests for their own version of the extremely popular iPhone app that quickly helps consumers determine whether they should buy or rent in their local market. Creating an app for the Android users reinforces our commitment to serving all consumers through every step of the home search process, starting with the very first step—deciding whether to buy or rent," said Jason Doyle, Homes.com vice-president and general manager. "This user-friendly app links consumers directly to homes for sale or rent depending on their needs."

The Homes.com Mortgage Calculator is a free app now available on the Android Market. Click to download now.
