

Your Alarm Now Announces the Launch of Wireless Home Security Systems in the Market

Your Alarm Now introduces the new wireless home security systems. The system is an innovation that the company has promoted to be of better service to its clients. The security system is equipped with various functions to help clients control their security systems better.

Your Alarm Now launches the innovative wireless home security systems in the marketplace. The new security system which has an uncomplicated installation procedure, simple transfer in times of reconstruction and one which has sensors as an alternative of wires, which permits virtual command in houses, including garage doors, lights and remote ready appliances. When electricity is off, alarm systems are disarmed as well. The alarms are reliant on the power that comes from the houses which causes the systems to disengage once the supply is disrupted. This is jeopardy clients need to embrace upon buying alarms. Home security systems identify intruders who attempt to go through personal properties and businesses.

Since the wireless home security systems are capable to carry on their functions even with power supply and telephone line scarcity, they still propel policemen in a short span of time in events of housebreaker attempts. The wireless systems have these abilities because they have self-sufficient battery and cellular backup technology that permits them to go on with observation and recognition even in cases of black outs or brown outs. This merely signifies that protection and safety they offer are not broken which reduces probability of successful intruder attempts and generates a secured feeling regardless any instances of opportunistic attacks.

Mr. Shakuri, the proprietor of Your Alarm Now said, "Almost everything now is wireless. Innovations are made every now and then, which we must also apply to home security systems to be able to provide the best protection we can to our clients."

"Sometimes, we just get too lazy to stand up and turn something on or off. The wireless home security systems from ADT which is distributed by Your Alarm Now is truly an innovation that will help us in our everyday lives, since almost everything will be within your reach with wireless gadgets," said Mr. Mikasi, a Your Alarm Now client from Canada.

Your Alarm now is an ADT authorized dealer who has been of service to protect families in CANADA and USA.

To learn more about Your Alarm Now and their services, visit them at <http://www.youralarmnow.com/> or call 1-800-599-8452.