Anthem Institute Donating Bodywork Services to Veterans

SPRINGFIELD, PENN., November 16, 2011—Anthem Institute-Springfield has joined with Hands for Heroes™ to provide therapeutic bodywork at no charge to Veterans who visit the school's Massage Therapy Clinic located at the school's campus at 400 South State Road in Springfield.

The Anthem Institute Clinic will provide a predetermined number of bodywork sessions each month to help Veterans deal with stress encountered during their tours of duty, as well as physical complaints common to many servicemen and servicewomen.

“Karen Giglio, our Massage Therapy Program Chair, has been instrumental with involving our Massage Therapy students in community-based volunteer activities. We are all so pleased that she identified this opportunity for us to open our doors to Veterans and service members from our community,” says Anthem College Campus President Catherine McClarin.

Hands for Heroes™ is a nationwide organization of caring health care professionals who have donated their time and skills to provide therapeutic bodywork for our Nations Veterans.

Hands for Heroes has a stated goal to provide one million therapeutic bodywork sessions to Veterans. As a Hands for Heroes Partner™, Anthem Institute-Springfield will make a significant contribution to Veterans, service members, and their families.
