Day 1 (12 Nov): Arrival, and Astronomy Presentation

After transferring from the Cairns airport, you settle into your accommodation at the lovely 4-star boutique hotel Il Palazzo in Cairns. Reflecting the neoclassical architecture of Europe (Michelangelo's David sculpture greets you in the foyer!) the recently refurbished one bedroom suites are superbly appointed with private balconies and kitchenette. Perfect for singles or couples, your hotel room features air conditioning, hairdryer, mini bar and tea & coffee making facilities, internet access, Austar cable TV and private laundry. The Mediterranean-style pool claims a cascading fountain and a rooftop sun deck gives you a pleasant way to relax and refresh. Just one block from the Cairns waterfront and centrally located in the restaurant and shopping district, Il Palazzo is the perfect base from which to have your adventures.

As a special treat tonight, you have 2011 Nobel Laureate Dr. Brian Schmidt introducing you to total solar eclipses. By studying exploding stars, astrophysicist Dr. Schmidt helped discover the universe is expanding at an accelerating rate, for which he won the Nobel Prize for Physics in 2011. He has extensive public speaking experience, having given last year's Halley Lecture (named after Edmund Halley, as in the comet) at Oxford and appearing occasionally on ABC Television's Catalyst. Speaking only to Small World Journeys' guests, Dr. Schmidt will cover a variety of topics, conversing in layman's terms about astronomy and the significance of total solar eclipses. There will be time afterwards to chat with Dr. Schmidt with your eclipse-related questions.

Day 3 (14 Nov): Total Solar Eclipse from Hot Air Balloon and Wildlife

In the wee hours of the morning, you prepare for a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity - the chance to see a total solar eclipse as the shadow of the moon passes over you. The Cairns region will be the best place in the world to witness this exciting event, and your position floating over the earth will allow for the best line-of-sight of this early morning eclipse. You will drift at 1000-3000 feet above ground level, your flight timed precisely so that totality occurs in the middle of the flying time. From the basket, you will be able to see kangaroos going about their morning routine, and then special solar eclipse glasses will allow you to view the eclipse when it commences. Totality will last just under two minutes after which the shadow will move out across unpopulated areas of the South Pacific. You celebrate afterwards with champagne and a delicious buffet breakfast.

Afterwards you travel to Granite Gorge, where a labyrinth of giant boulders and carved canyons have fashioned a fantastic place to explore. Here, formerly endangered rock wallabies (a cousin to the kangaroo) come out to play, and you can hand feed these wild but friendly creatures. You will then descend the Great Dividing Range, travelling down lush rainforest slopes and jungle-draped valleys. You have the rest of the afternoon to relax, soak up the sun, and reflect upon this morning's adventure.

Day 4 (15 Nov): The Great Barrier Reef: Snorkeling or SCUBA Diving

One of the world's greatest wonders of nature is The Great Barrier Reef. Spanning over 1800 kilometres, the Great Barrier Reef is a UNESCO World-Heritage site and claims some of the highest biodiversity on the planet. This morning you travel to the pristine outer Barrier Reef, where clear turquoise waters host a 1,800 species of fish and 450 species of coral. Upolu Cay is a pristine sugar-sand cay from which you can access the reef directly with your snorkel gear. A reef talk on the boat teaches you what you'll be looking at, and first-time snorkelers are well-looked after by a friendly crew. You can also soak up the sun on the cay or take a complimentary glass bottom boat ride to see the reef from another perspective.

The second reef site you visit is "The Wonder Wall" on the outer edge of Upolu Reef. Rising 14 metres from the ocean floor, Wonder Wall plateaus a half metre under the surface, making it an ideal snorkel and dive site. Here you can view many different types of hard and soft coral, in addition to fans, giant clams, turtles and a huge diversity and abundance of reef fish of all sizes, including nemos everywhere! An informative adventure drift snorkel tour with a marine naturalist assures you don't miss anything at this phenomenal site.

Certified divers can log 2 dives today, and snorkelers can also opt to learn about SCUBA diving one-on-one from the dive instructor. Intro diving (also known as "resort diving") is a fantastic way to see the reef without having a certification (diving is an extra cost). Your day includes all the snorkelling gear you need, sumptuous seafood buffet, and chilled wine and cheese on the return back to Cairns late afternoon.

Included: Breakfast, Lunch

Day 5 (15 Nov): Trip Conclusion or Extension

FAQ'S

What is a total solar eclipse?

When the moon passes between the earth and the sun and covers the sun, a solar eclipse occurs. This creates a shadow on the Earth, which moves in a narrow path across the planet. When a solar eclipse begins, it appears as though a bite is being taken out of the sun. In the last few minutes before the total eclipse, points of light around the moon appear, which are called Bailey's Beads. When the eclipse finally occurs, the sun is completely blocked out, with only a ghostly corona visible. This occurrence has been described as eerie and unearthly—animals become quiet, the temperature drops, and you are shrouded in darkness. You don't have to be an astronomer to appreciate a total solar eclipse, which is one of nature's greatest spectacles.

Where will be the best place to view the eclipse?

Our research has concluded that a viewing spot from a hot air balloon will provide a location with the least likelihood of coastal cloud cover and a direct line-of-sight of the eclipse.

In Cairns, warm winds from the Coral Sea (the SE tradewinds) carry moisture-laden air towards the coast, and clouds form when it hits these mountains. Therefore, a viewing spot free from these coastal mountain effects is highly desirable.

It is fortunate that the eclipse occurs in the early morning when the least build up of cloud has occurred.

According to The Astronomical Society of Australia, "The best places to view are likely to be in the vicinity of Cairns in North Queensland. From Cairns any viewing spot selected should have an unobstructed view over the ocean so that a clear view of totality can be obtained with the Sun low in the eastern sky."

The launching spot for the hot air balloon is near the town of Mareeba, about 40 kilometres inland and on the “dry” side of the coastal range. You will be flying 1000 – 3000 feet above the ground (plus 900 feet above sea level) with a completely unobstructed view. The peak two minutes of totality at 6:38 am falls in the middle of the projected flying time.

WARNING: Never look directly at the sun. All Small World Journeys guests will be provided with special eclipse-viewing solar filter glasses. The only time that the Sun can be viewed safely with the naked eye is when the moon completely covers the disk of the Sun during the total eclipse.

What will the weather be like in November?

It will be impossible to predict the weather or cloud cover for the day of the eclipse. However, we can consider seasonal averages. Cairns has a tropical climate, and it is highly likely there will be scattered to broken clouds on the morning of the eclipse. According to the Australian Bureau of Meteorology’s climate statistics for Cairns, in November the mean number of clear days is 7.9, while the mean number of cloudy days is 7.6.

Taking into account the eclipse occurs in the early morning, chances are greater that the skies will be clear at that time of day. Please note that while we can hope for sunny skies, we cannot guarantee them!

Is the eclipse on November 13th or 14th?

Both are correct. In Universal Time, the total eclipse begins in northern Australia at 20:35:08 UT on November 13 (which is November 14 Australian time), and ends in the South Pacific at 23:48:24 UT on November 13.

What should I bring with me?

We will provide you with a suggested packing list in your Confirmation Packet. Some things to remember are clothes appropriate for the tropics, rain jacket and sunscreen.

What about sharks or jellyfish?

The ocean is home to sharks, but the ones you may encounter at the Great Barrier Reef are small and pose little threat to swimmers. In fact, divers and snorkelers often consider themselves lucky to spot one of these shy, magnificent creatures. Australia's famed Great White sharks prefer cold water, and therefore are not found at the Great Barrier Reef.

Box jellyfish, irukandji and other jellyfish, collectively known as “stingers” breed along the coast in estuaries and are not commonly found at The Great Barrier Reef. Therefore, they do not pose a major threat to snorkelers or divers at the reef. As a precaution you can choose to use a full body lycra suit from the reef boat, provided free. Stingers are only a consideration between November and April/May.

Do I need a visa to visit Australia?

All visitors to Australia need a visa, with the exception of visitors from New Zealand. An Australian entry visa, commonly known as an ETA (Electronic Travel Authority) will let you spend up to three months in Australia. In most countries it is easily obtained by the travel agent who issues your ticket, and should be free of charge. You can also get an ETA on line by visiting www.eta.immi.gov.au. There is no need for you to visit an Australian diplomatic office to submit an application, and you do not need a stamp or label in your passport. Upon check in at the airport, the airline agent will be able to confirm your ETA electronically.

All visitors will also need a passport, valid for at least six months after the planned return date.

Do I need to bring my own snorkelling or dive equipment?

You may bring your own equipment if you wish; however mask, fins and snorkel are provided on the outer Barrier Reef trip for snorkelers and all dive equipment is included in the dive package.
