

Your Alarm Now About to Add Smoke Detection Devices in Their Home Security Systems Package

Your Alarm Now, one of the nation's most trusted provider of home security systems has declared that their complete range of smoke detection equipment is about to hit the market. The company specializes in providing top class home security service all over the United States and Canada.

Surprise, AZ (PRWEB) December 04, 2011

Your Alarm Now is a well known home security systems provider in the United States and Canada. The company has been dedicated to providing high quality home security solutions for an affordable price range. They offer a complete range of security devices including sensors for doors and windows, motion detectors, loud burglar alarms, and many more highly effective devices. The owner of the company Mr. Paul Shakuri has just announced that they are going to introduce their smoke detection package to the market very shortly. The package will consist of two wireless devices for the detection of smoke and carbon monoxide.

Providing fire safety is an integral part of the modern day home security systems. Talking about the future plans of the company, the owner Mr. Shakuri said, "Our ultimate goal is to provide full proof security to the life and property our customers. Our smoke detection device is just a step towards achieving this goal". He has also mentioned that the smoke detectors from Your Alarm Now will be equipped with latest features like maintenance alert and point identification. These detectors will be easy to use and maintain. The main objective of these detection devices would be ensure that proper measures can be initiated before the fire goes beyond control. The wireless smoke detection system will also act as a heat detector and informs the residents about the slightest possibility of fire. The carbon monoxide detector will identify even a very small increase in the concentration of carbon monoxide in the ambient air. This device will use a transmitter to send a warning if there is any chance of serious increase of carbon monoxide in the air.

"Home security systems are not all about prevention from burglary or theft. A complete home security package must also provide fire safety to the homeowners", Mr. Shakuri said, while talking about the upcoming product of his company. He has also added that the product is expected to be launched at the beginning of the New Year.

About the Company: Your Alarm Now is one of the most well known manufacturers of home security systems in the United States. The company has declared that their smoke detection device will be introduced in the market shortly.

Contact:

Paul Shakuri

Phone: 800-599-452.

Website: <http://www.YourAlarmNow.com>