31 Days of Chocolate - Sugar Plum Chocolates is Spreading Holiday Cheer Throughout the United States

Sugar Plum Chocolates, recently featured on the Huffington Post, is spreading holiday cheer to its loyal Facebook fans by giving away some of their most coveted treats each day throughout the month of December.

This holiday season, Sugar Plum Chocolates, the Belgian chocolate choice of the Academy Award gift bags and featured this month in the Huffington Post, is stepping forward in spreading holiday cheer to all of its new and existing customers. In doing so, Sugar Plum is featuring their new and best selling products throughout the entire month of December on their Facebook page. Each day the loyal fans will be able to win one of their best selling products including the delicious Ch'up Cake, brand new, amazing Cereal Bars, very fashionable Macbeth Bars, or even the "to die for" Chocolate Mountain. In addition to winning the delectable chocolate every day, each winner is also receiving a 20% off coupon for their next order on the website. Even fans who are unable to win will have access to a 10% off coupon on Facebook for the entire month of December.

By going to <http://www.facebook.com/sugarplumchocolates/> and clicking Sweepstakes on the left side navigation, Facebook fans will be able to enter every single day. Once a winner is announced on the Facebook page, it then resets those previous entries to make it fair to everyone. Sugar Plum wanted to give the customers the best taste of Sugar Plum Chocolates and even an advance peek of what is being worked on next. The 31 Days of Chocolate is just one step toward how Sugar Plum really plans to change the customer appreciation aspect of the chocolate industry in December.
