

Your Alarm Now Introduces Their Basic Home Security Systems Package in the United States and Canada

Home Security Systems provider Your Alarm Now has just declared the launch of their new low cost basic package. This package is designed for the households that have a landline telephone. The basic package has been priced reasonably for everybody to be able to afford the service.

A new package of home security systems has been launched recently by Your Alarm Now. They are one of the most familiar names in the domestic security industry in America and Canada. This new package has been priced at $35.99 per month for the convenience of common users. Their other two packages named elite and premium package has already gained extraordinary popularity over the last few months. The package was officially launched last week by the company owner Mr. Paul Shakuri. He is an eminent personality in the home security industry and has been providing top class security consultancy service for years.

The importance of home security systems has increased significantly in the post recession era. What was once considered to be a luxury is now a necessity for all home owners around the world. Your Alarm Now is dedicated to provide round the clock protection to all residential properties in Canada and the United States. Their security systems are equipped with all the latest gadgets that make it much easier to safeguard the homes from any types of emergency situation. During the launch of the basic package, Mr. Shakuri said, "This economical package has all the latest features that you may want. You only need to have a landline telephone to avail this service for a little more than $1 per day". He also added that the users can immediately connect to an ADT monitoring in case of an emergency.

Your Alarm Now home security systems are presently being preferred by many customers over some more familiar security service providers. Xavier, one of their customers from Toronto, was quoted saying, "They exceeded my expectations with their highly professional service. I know my home and family is safe now for the rest of my life". Some of the leading market analysts have opined that the launch of the new basic package is expected to skyrocket their business figures in the near future. The company sources have also revealed that they are receiving a huge a number of inquiries from the prospective customers interested in this package.

About the Company: Your Alarm Now has recently launched their most economical basic plan for their customers. The package will cost $35.99 per month, and can be availed by the house owners in Canada and America.

Contact

Paul Shakuri

Phone: 800-599-452.

Website: <http://www.YourAlarmNow.com>