

Will Ron Paul Endorse the Self Directed 401K and Roth 401K?

Hello,

I'm Richard Geller, CEO and operating manager of FinancialSuccessInstitute.org. If you are not already a regular reader and subscriber to the vital information and resources provided by the Institute, I encourage you to visit the website and sign up now at: FinancialInvestmentInstitute.org. The Institute is devoted to researching and providing information about high return alternative investments that you can physically hold in a self directed 401K and Roth 401K. Almost always, these are very different from what your financial planner tells you about.

In this issue of our newsletter, we focus on the same subjects that presidential candidate Ron Paul is sounding the alarm about. Specifically, the extreme risk investors are taking when they in own paper assets instead of physical and tangible hard assets. The self directed 401K and Roth 401K are the best retirement account vehicle for holding hard assets like real estate and gold coins. With inflation being powered by the billions and hundreds of billions of paper money being printed out of thin air by the Federal Reserve, inflationary resistant hard assets are the best investment today. Please read the entire newsletter to learn the serious need to open a self directed 401K and Roth 401K today.

No one cares more about you becoming wealthy than you do and no one else should. You'll do much better taking full control of your financial future starting today! The way to do that is with a self directed 401K and 401K. At FinancialInvestmentInstitute.org you'll learn exactly how to do it!

Please visit us at FinancialInvestmentInstitute.org to leave general questions and comments.

Self Directed 401K and Roth 401K – How NOT to Become Wealthy

By brian on January 4th, 2012

If you aren't yet into a self directed 401K or Roth 401K and are still invested in the stock markets or are thinking about getting back in, you need to read this. Here's part of a blog that Tyler Durden posted on Zerohedge.com:

"2011 has not been good for hedge funds ... this will be the first year of many, possibly ever, in which the average hedge fund had a negative return, even as the broader market had a minimally positive return, although there are still a few more trading days in the year so the S&P could well close negative."

Hedge fund managers are supposed to be the smartest investors in the market. The ultra rich trust them with their money and require the managers personally invest substantial amounts of their own money to assure they act in the best interest of the hedge fund.

One of your alternatives with a self directed 401K or Roth 401K is traditional investing in stocks, bonds, and mutual funds on Wall Street. If the best in the market is losing money, your little self directed IRA doesn't stand much chance. Better you invest your self directed 401K or Roth 401K were it will be secure and grow predictably.

Tyler Durden's post doesn't show any confidence the markets will change any time soon. He goes on to say:

"No doubt this collapse in returns will be blamed on this and that, yet we can't help but wonder how in the "New Hedge Fund Normal" in which fundamentals no longer matter.... just what will happen to that ultra critical $2 trillion marginal purchasing power, levered 3 times, which has traditionally been the driving force for market moves higher?"

You can hold a self directed 401K or Roth 401K outside of an employer's pension fund. That might be a good idea since pensions are major investors in hedge funds. Having a self directed 401K or Roth 401K invested in real estate or other tangible assets could just be the real hedge you need against stock market investing.

CNN Money reports that at the end of November, hedge fund losses averaged 7% for the year and the roller coaster S&P 500 was down 0.8%. When you have a self directed 401K or Roth 401K invested in a real estate note paying 8%, you know exactly where your self directed IRA will end the year – up 8%.

It's pretty easy to invest a self directed 401K or Roth 401K into a real estate note bearing 8% annually. A $100,000 self directed 401K or Roth 401K compounding for 15 years becomes a self directed 401K or Roth 401K with $330,700. I don't know about you but I'd be afraid $100,000 invested on Wall Street for 15 years would become $60,000.

Comparing a highly secured self directed 401K or Roth 401K to Wall Street is like holding a royal flush to Wall Streets pair of deuces. You can be sure you're taking home the money. Not them Photo courtesy of www.flickr.com/photos/melissagrays/3786233137/

A tax lien is another highly secure investment for you self directed 401K or Roth 401K. Some tax liens are delivering 18% interest to people's self directed 401K or Roth 401Ks. Compounding your self directed 401K or Roth 401K at 18% for 15 years will let you retire a millionaire with $1.4 million in your self directed 401K or Roth 401K. How secure are tax liens? If the taxes don't get paid, your self directed 401K or Roth 401K becomes the owner of the property for the cost of the back taxes. How long this takes varies by state but most will turn over the property to your self directed 401K or Roth 401K in three years or less.

As 2012 begins, you owe it to yourself and your family to stop losing your wealth on Wall Street and start building your retirement by securely investing with a self directed 401K or Roth 401K.

We've gone to some of the foremost experts who make their money AWAY from Wall Street to put together this report showing you how you can possibly convert to a MUCH better retirement account option that most people don't know about

- Pool most/all of your present IRAs into one "super account"
- Buy rental properties, mortgage notes, or your dream home INSIDE your retirement account
- Get tax free income for life with MUCH higher potential returns than you'll ever get from an annuity
- Buy and HOLD gold and silver coins so you have them PHYSICALLY in your possession, but they are owned inside your retirement account
- Works even if you have a J-O-B, even if your J-O-B already has a 401K for you

Self Directed 401K or Roth 401K – What Do You Want to Invest In?

By brian on January 4th, 2012

The first thing that comes to mind for most people looking to invest is NOT promissory notes, limited liability companies, precious metals, real estate, or stock in privately held company. Yet, that is exactly what a self directed 401k or Roth 401K is capable of.

Every day, more Americans are moving their retirement funds into alternative investment vehicles like the self directed 401k or Roth 401K. Two primary goals are driving the switch to the self directed 401k or Roth 401K. One is a desire to out perform the nonperforming stock markets. The second is having full control of your investments with a self directed 401k or Roth 401K.

The popularity of the self directed 401k or Roth 401K is growing as American's become aware of the diversity of investment types opened up by the self directed 401k or Roth 401K. But before you rush out and move your retirement plan into a self directed 401k or Roth 401K, there are several things you need to know to get started. In his article Self Directed 401k or Roth 401K, Information, tax attorney Warren L. Baker points out several issues people need to first deal with:

"The reality is that most large investment institutions (e.g., Charles Schwab, Fidelity, etc.) have traditionally not allowed investments outside of publicly-traded securities. Thus, one of the first steps in the process of forming a self directed IRA is generally to roll or transfer some (or all) of the retirement account to a new IRA custodian."

"In general, if the retirement account that is owned by the client is structured as an IRA (or a 401(k) from a previous employer), it can be moved — in whole or in part — to a new custodian without incurring current tax consequences."

Here at Financial Success Institute we prefer the self directed 401K or Roth 401K to the self directed IRA but for some people there is good reason to go with the self directed IRA. If you do, when you look for a custodian for your self directed IRA, you want one that allows your self directed IRA to invest in limited liability companies (LLC). The reason is to establish an LLC owned by your self directed IRA. You then manage the LLC on behalf of your self directed IRA.

Having an LLC owned by your self directed IRA accomplishes two important goals. You next open a checkbook account in the name of the LLC giving you full control of the funds the self directed IRA invests in the LLC. With full control of your self directed IRA you can invest through foreclosure auctions and tax lien auctions. Most of these require full payment at the time of sale or with in day or two. A self directed IRA requiring third party custodian approval can't move fast enough to participate in auctions.

Will you have full control of your self directed IRA or will it be controlled like a NASA launch with dozens people having to agree an investment is good to go? Photo Courtesy of: www.flickr.com/photos/gsf/3653495563/

The other reason you want full control of your self directed IRA with an LLC is to minimize the fees charged by the third party custodian. When your self directed IRA invests through a LLC that you have checkbook control over, there are no transaction fees. You'll still have an annual account fee and probably a fee to prepare a report for the IRS. However, when you have full control of your self directed IRA through an LLC, you'll save the transaction fees.

At FinancialSuccessInstitute.org we want to do everything possible providing you the information needed to make a decision between the self directed IRA and the self directed 401K. The next stop on your adventure in growing a wealthy retirement account needs to be the Special Report comparing Self Directed IRA and 401K accounts.
