GLOBAL SERVICE-LEARNING IN NURSING

This is a book of learning that can bring healing to the world through the touch of nursing. No one country owns the knowledge or service that nursing can provide. This book provides a map for approaching the best of global work in nursing. It stretches our own culturally determined value system while binding us to others – other nurses, other people – in profound ways. The authors demystify the global endeavor by clearing the brush from the pathway, helping us see clearly the reality of global commitment through partnerships. The world cannot wait. Read, learn, serve.

The need for nurses to have a global mindset and to be global citizens has never been greater than it is today. The challenges faced by any given country in providing quality health care impact us all; to think otherwise is naïve and perhaps even irresponsible. Global service-learning should be incorporated into the education of all nurses in the 21st century.
