

Arcade Games Website Attracting a Lot of Attention from Online Gaming Enthusiasts

eArcades.com has been drawing the interest of arcade games players since its launch on Christmas Day. Website has already recorded more than 2,000 signups and is expecting more in the coming days. In response to the energetic traffic, Internet Marketing Services, owner of the site, announced that it will continue its series of updates and come up with more games for users to enjoy. The website presently hosts 5,000 free flash format games that are readily playable from any browser.

Launched to world traffic last Christmas Day, eArcades.com is quickly becoming a favorite among enthusiasts with its massive array of 5,000 arcade games. The games come in a full range of 15 different categories, each catered to meet gamers' unique interests. Internet Marketing Services, owner of the website, proudly announced that all their games are carefully selected and only those with the best ratings made the cut.

With an increasing membership that currently number at 2,000 IMS announced that it will respond with more updates in the future. As of this week, 200 new arcade games were added to the site's impressive game database but the company assures the inclusion of more games in the days to come.

Since its launch, the team behind eArcades.com has been hard at work in order to keep the enthusiasm of users going. Players can look forward to the addition of more high quality arcade games at the site, chosen manually by the IMS Team.

Michael Bashi, CEO of Internet Marketing Services, explained how the website works to those who are not yet familiar to eArcades.com. Players simply have to go to the website and choose the game that interests them. They only have to pick the game and wait for it to load so they can enjoy it as much as they like. No log in is required to enjoy the arcade games and definitely no fee is required, says Bashi. The only requirement is for users to have a flash-support browser as the games are in that format.

Internet Marketing Services advises gamers follow their Facebook and Twitter pages for daily updates and announcements. eArcades.com is supported by several social media platforms with features that allow players to share arcade games to family and friends with just one click.