Miami has always been a city close to the hearts of superstar couple Jennifer Lopez and Marc Anthony. “I love this city,” says Jennifer. In the early days of their courtship, they fell in love while in Miami, and they still can’t get enough of its sunny beaches and romantic nights. Luckily, they’ll have easy access to all Miami has to offer now that they’re moving into the Icon Brickell, a high-rise full of luxury condos smack in the heart of the city. “It’s an amazing building,” says Miami Realtor Nelson Gonzalez. “The views are spectacular. The location is amazing ... and it’s very kid-friendly.” That means Jennifer won’t ever run out of things to do with her 19-month-old twins, Max and Emme, while living here. “There are parks, beaches — it’s a great place to have a family,” adds Gonzalez. ➔

"At this time in my life, with my babies, husband and home, everything feels complete," says Jennifer, who loves spending nights with loved ones. "I find it sexy to stay home — to me, that's the best place to be."

THE ULTIMATE ESCAPE

With five-star amenities such as high-tech security, state-of-the-art spas, high-end restaurants, two acres of rooftop pools and vast private decks, there's practically no need for Jennifer and Marc to ever leave their Philippe Starck-designed home.

TOGETHER TIME

"Family has always been really important to me," says Jennifer, who "loves being a stepmom" to Marc's three kids from past relationships, who live nearby. "He's a really great dad."

HERE COMES THE SUN

"The going-out-and-being-glam thing gets old fast," says Jennifer, who treasures family private time. "I look forward to enjoying the sunlight and playing with my kids." Thanks to her home's many floor-to-ceiling windows, her wish will come true!

The couple, who also have homes in LA and New York, announced their purchase after Marc became a minority partner in the NFL's Miami Dolphins. "This will be the sexiest place in town," says Marc. They're looking forward to transforming their home into a special getaway. "I go for the drama," says Jennifer, who describes Marc's taste as "very bohemian, but he also appreciates glamorous things — so it's easy for us to meld."

It's likely the couple will be making use of the building's intimate, private movie theater, as well. "We are big movie buffs," admits Jennifer, who took a break from "the business" while her children were infants. "It's easy to get used to staying home with the kids," says Jennifer, who has returned to work, completing The Back-Up Plan and recording an album (both are scheduled for release in January). With her new high-rise home and happy family, the former "Jenny from the block" is on top of the world in every way right now. "I'm in a good place," agrees Jennifer.
