

eArcades.com to Offer More Browser-based Arcade Games

Last week, eArcades.com has begun releasing new arcade games to a worldwide audience. The series of updates is part of the website's strong campaign to make its presence felt in the online gaming industry. eArcades.com was launched last Christmas Day and has recorded 2,000 membership signups in just its first week. However, site owner Internet Marketing Services does not want to relax just yet, hence they are bringing out more new offerings in the coming days.

200 new arcade games were released this week by eArcades.com as part of their strong campaign for a top spot in the online gaming industry. Internet Marketing Services (IMS), owner of the website, announced that the new games, just like the ones already on the site, are carefully chosen by their team of developers to ensure only that high quality and top rated games will make the cut. The new selections run a full range of categories which include strategy, action, adventure, shooting, puzzle, and educational. They are targeted at giving players a unique gameplay experience with their exciting format and stimulating graphics. 2billiard, Hill Truck Trials, Help Santa, Skull Escape are all new additions to the sites gaming database, to name a few.

eArcades.com is a full-fledged arcade games website dedicated at providing gamers with an impressive number of choices and high quality games. It debuted last Christmas Day and immediately garnered 2,000 membership signups in its first week, defying expectations that the team behind it initially set. Such strong response has encouraged IMS to immediately launch its new updates along with the promise that more new games will be released in the weeks to come.

IMS is also establishing eArcades.com as a social gaming network. This exciting new format combines the features of social networking and online gaming so players can both enjoy arcade games at the site and meet new friends as well. Users also have the options to post their scores on leader boards so they can show off their skills to other gamers from all over the world.

Michael Bashi, CEO of Internet Marketing Services, made it clear that the eArcades.com will be free despite the numerous updates they are throwing away. eArcades.com is fully supported by a host of commercial sponsors so users would not have draw out their credit card in order to play arcade games.
