

Elite Security Services Announce the Launch of their You Tube Channel to Promote Awareness amongst Home Security Systems Users

ADT authorized dealer of home security systems named Elite Security Services has recently launched their highly informative You Tube video channel. The objective behind this launch is to create mass awareness about home protection. Elite Security Services has become one of the most familiar names in the industry within a short time by providing quality service within affordable price.

The American home security systems expert Elite Security Services has recently taken a praiseworthy initiative to increase awareness among the house owners about home protection. The company has launched their You Tube channel to share videos explaining the different aspects of security devices for domestic application. The company started offering their service during the later part of 2011, and now offers security solutions throughout Canada and the United States. The new video channel has already become a reliable online source of information for people who want to know about home surveillance devices. In these You Tube videos, the owner of the organization, Mr. Paul Shakuri has himself explained the intricate points of different security systems and their optimum use.

Apart from being the owner of Elite Security Services, Mr. Shakuri is also a known personality in the home security systems industry. He has been associated with this industry for nearly a decade and has been instrumental in the designing of many top class security devices. Explaining the idea behind the launch of the video channel, he said, “Unfortunately, many people do not have a clear idea about these devices. The short videos will help them assess their home protection requirements when they decide to install one”. Elite Security Services presently offers three efficient packages within a common man’s budget. The wireless technology presented by the company is the latest trend in the security industry. They have a top of the line security package designed specifically for households without basic telephone connection.

The affordable home security systems are available from a monthly fee of $35.99 only. Inexpensive pricing, advanced features, and extremely customer friendly service have made them one of the favorite security companies for the Canadian and American customers. These customers have thanked the company for the launch of this YouTube channel. Daniel from Orlando says, “These videos have helped me a great deal to understand the system that I had installed last month. I am highly impressed”. The company sources have informed that more videos are going to be added to the channel very soon.

About the Company: Elite Security Services is a home security service provider with a large pool of satisfied customers in Canada and America. They are also an affiliate of Protect Your Home.
