

New Video Guide on Back up Power Battery Device Added to the YouTube Channel of Renowned Home Security Systems Company

Noted home security systems experts named Elite Security Services have added one more new video to their YouTube Channel. This short video guide demonstrates the function of their highly advanced cell back up battery. Elite Security Services provides top class security systems throughout Canada and the United States.

One more top quality home security systems video guide has just been added to the popular YouTube channel of Elite Security Services. The company recently launched their YouTube channel to create mass awareness among the security system users. New videos are regularly added to the channel by the company to explain the different functional aspects of the devices used. All these videos are presented by the security industry stalwart and the top boss of the company Mr. Paul Shakuri. Elite Security Services provides their service all over the United States within a common man's budget. The cell back up power device is a component that helps the security systems to perform its function without a landline telephone connection.

This back up power device has been one of the major factors behind the popularity of the company's home security systems. In the video, Mr. Shakuri explains and demonstrates how the back up device can continue to send emergency signals to ADT monitoring stations even when the telephone lines are cut. The traditional security systems are completely dependent on telephone lines, and fail to transmit signals when the line gets disconnected. The cellular back up battery technology is highly popular these days because it allows users to install a security system without a basic telephone line. This facility is offered by Elite Security Services in their highly sophisticated Elite package.

Talking about the inclusion of the new video, Mr. Shakuri said, "Many home owners want to know more about this device. We hope this short video will help them understand how the power back up system works". He also added that some more videos would be added to the channel very soon. It may be noted here that Elite Security Services is an ADT authorized dealer of home security systems. The packages from them are available from a nominal monthly rental of $35.99 per month. The company has built a reputation as a trustworthy security service provider with their quality service and customer centric approach.

About the Company: Elite Security Services is a rapidly growing company in the home security industry. They offer highly efficient and economical home security solutions in America and Canada.
