

Recently Introduced Advanced Motion Detector Skyrockets the Demand of Home Security Systems from Elite Security Services in Canada.

The market demand for Elite Security Service's home security systems has been rising sharply in Canada since the last few months. The recent introduction of the pet immune motion detection device has accelerated their growth in this country. The company has been providing low cost security service here since last few months.

The demand for the home security systems brought to the Canadian market by Elite Security Services has gathered further momentum after the introduction of their pet friendly, advanced motion detector. The company entered the Canadian market just a few months ago and has made considerable grounds within a very short time. The American security company is well known now for their cost effective domestic security packages. This new device has become extremely popular with the households that have pets. It minimizes the false alarms triggered by the system by differentiating between human and non human movements. The device is a part of all the security packages from the company.

False alarms have always been a major limitation of home security systems. However, with the improvement of technology, the field of domestic security has also seen tremendous enhancements. The traditional systems sound false alarms every time a pet animal moves around the sensor. The advanced systems have completely eliminated this problem, thanks to the dual lens technology. These systems work efficiently by eliminating false alarms for pets within a certain weight range. Talking about this device, the president of Elite Security Services Mr. Paul Shakuri said, "Many households have pets these days. This device is particularly for those users. It can eliminate false alarms triggered by pets within 80 pounds". The introduction of this device has certainly helped Elite Security Services tighten their grip in the Canadian security industry.

Apart from this device, the home security systems from the company comprise of some of the most sophisticated security gadgets in the market. Their ever increasing popularity in this country can also be attributed to top class installation and customer friendly approach. Talking about the company and their service, one of their customers from Halifax named Danny said, "I am really surprised by the quality of service provided by Elite Security. It was a pleasure dealing with them, and they would certainly be my choice if I ever need any assistance in the future".

About the Company: Elite Security Services is a rapidly growing company in the home security industry. They offer highly efficient and economical home security solutions in America and Canada.

Contact
Paul Shakuri

Phone: 800-599-8452.

Website: <http://www.YourAlarmNow.com>