

Xsolla to Exhibit at Game Connection Conference in San Francisco March 5 - 7

Online Gaming Payment Specialist Will be Exhibitor at Game Connection March 5th – March 7th and at GDC March 5th - 9th

Los Angeles, CA—March 1, 2012

Xsolla, the leader in providing in-game payment solutions worldwide, will be showcasing their award winning and industry leading payment solutions platform at this year's Game Connection conference in San Francisco. During the event, they will be meeting with both their peers and partners in the payment field as well as game developers to share and consult about the latest news and happenings in the online gaming industry.

This year's Game Connection gathering will be taking place from 5th to 7th March 2012 at the Sir Francis Drake Hotel in San Francisco, California. Since 2001 Game Connection has been the B2B "place to be" for video game professionals.

Each year, CEO's, VP's, Heads of Biz Development and other decision makers gather twice – once in Europe and once in the U.S. – to meet, do business together, connect with new industry professionals, and socialize in a lively environment. More than 400 companies will be present at Game Connection, with more than 40 countries represented.

"Game Connection is always among the yearly highlights for us when it comes to game conventions," says Xsolla Executive Vice President and Co-Founder Albert Donahue. "Because Game Connection has more of a "networking" atmosphere instead of an Expo-type atmosphere, it is more conducive to getting to know people and learning more about partnership opportunities than some of the larger conventions."

Xsolla will be at #232 on the second floor and will be attending many of the seminars, conferences, and classes that are offered during the event.
