

SenarioTek Appoints James Melville as US Sales Manager

March 2, 2012 (Santa Rosa, CA) – SenarioTek, a privately-held designer and manufacturer of RF and microwave products, has named James Melville as its new US Sales Manager. This is a new position established to continue and expand SenarioTek’s growing business. Prior to joining SenarioTek, Mr. Melville has had extensive RF experience including the support of various satellite, radar, JSF, and missile programs. He has held prominent sales positions with GenRad, Teradyne, and Symtx/AAI. His most recent experience was with Symtx/AAI as National Account Manager for Lockheed Martin and Northeastern Sales Manager. “SenarioTek has seen rapid growth over the last few years and Jim’s 30 years of industry experience and customer knowledge will strengthen our position in our targeted markets”, said Simi Ghiasvand, SenarioTek’s CEO and President.
