Valdata Systems Gives Back

Valdata Systems supports international hunger charity

March 7, 2012 : Valdata Systems, a supplier of expert Chemical Management Systems, has announced its financial support of Feed The Need – an event dedicated to pack and deliver over 400,000 meals to children in Africa affected by world hunger.

Feed The Need has partnered with Feed My Starving Children, a non-profit relief organization which has worked with scientists to develop a meal that will both save lives and improve long-term health, growth and physical well-being. The ingredients, packaging and labor are supplied completely through volunteer and fund raising efforts, with 100% of the funds raised going directly to the cost of materials.

The meals will be packed locally in New Jersey by a staff of volunteers, then shipped internationally to be distributed by local relief organizations. The event takes place this month.

“We have found Feed The Need to be an excellent opportunity to support international relief while partnering with organizations on a local level”, said Susan Balsamello, Valdata Systems Marketing Director. “We are proud to assist them in reaching their goal.”
