PROVADE NAMES CHIEF BUSINESS INTELLIGENCE ARCHITECT

Sreenivas Davuluri's new position to address growing importance and capabilities of BI

SAN MATEO, Calif., Mar. 14, 2012 – Provade, Inc., an industry leading enterprise Vendor Management System (VMS) technology provider, has named Sreenivas “Dinu” Davuluri as Chief Business Intelligence (BI) Architect. In his new role, Davuluri is responsible for the research, development and implementation of business intelligence applications for Provade.

“Dinu brings over a decade of business intelligence experience working with Oracle and Oracle’s PeopleSoft to our team,” said Edward Jackson, President of Provade. “His ability to analyze enterprise VMS products strategically, functionally and technically is almost unmatched in the marketplace and will prove instrumental in maintaining Provade’s position as an industry innovator.”

Davuluri previously served as Provade’s Director of Development for Business Intelligence, successfully designing and implementing the firm’s industry-leading VMS Enterprise Analytics and Reporting System from concept to finished product.

“Expansion of Provade’s already incredible BI resources will enable our users easy access for complex data to serve their unique needs,” said Davuluri. “Provade develops world-class VMS software and I am thrilled to push that standard of excellence to the next level on the BI front.”

Davuluri previously worked with Oracle and PeopleSoft where he was instrumental in orchestrating the building of the Enterprise Scorecard product as part of the Performance Management suite.
