

Edulang launches E.C.E. "Edulang Certificate of English", the first 100% online English Test.

Paris, March 15th, 2012 Launched this week, the Edulang Certificate of English (E.C.E.) is the first 100% online English test for which examinees are not required to travel to a distant exam center, and whose price is reduced by 95 % when compared to current industry standards. It thus enables the greatest number of international students to have an accurate and trustworthy certification of their English level at a very affordable price: 10 USD.

To find a job or pursue higher education abroad, it has now become necessary for all non-native English speakers to certify their level of English. Today, these individuals are required to travel to a remote test site on a fixed date and pay a fee of upwards of 200 USD. This sector of activity represents more than 2 billion dollars in revenue per year worldwide, and yet due to its current requirements, only 20 million people have the means to afford such English tests.

"Edulang turns every computer connected to the internet into an examination center, available 24/7, and secured by webcam surveillance. We seek a potential market of 450 million people worldwide who do not have the resources to prove their English proficiency." says Edulang's President, Michel Nizon, whose company also distributes high quality, year-long English courses starting at 1 USD with 50% of the "Pay What You Want" proceeds donated to the humanitarian organization, Room to Read.

How it works?

This two-hour test consists of two major parts, listening and reading, each consisting of 100 questions. Before and after the examination, the examinee is required to be photographed via a webcam. Then, throughout the two-hour test the webcam continues to take a number of random photos to assure the continued and sole presence of the examinee.

Once the test is finished, an option to create an Edulang Certificate of English paper document will appear and the examinee can choose one of the photos taken during the test to appear on their certificate, or they can print their own version, however Edulang does not certify this latter version. Examinees thus receive a TOEIC®-equivalent score and can request an Edulang-certified certificate in the mail. Finally, it is worth noting that Edulang has an exclusive license for webcam-surveyed English examinations from a patent registered by Ness Access.

About Edulang:

Founded in 1992 Edulang develops all of its applications internally with a team of eminent professors. For more information, please consult our website: <http://www.edulang.com>

Press Contact

Brad Patterson, Social Media Manager, Brad at edulang.com +33 2 98 63 42 00