

Label Manufacturer Awarded Top Industry Honor for Tenth Time

Longwood, Fla. — Consolidated Label Company, a leading pressure sensitive label and flexible packaging manufacturer, has once again been honored with the Eugene Singer Award for the tenth consecutive year.

The Eugene Singer Award, one of highest honors given by the Tag and Label Manufacturers Institute (TLMI,) recognizes excellence in business management. Executives from Consolidated Label accepted the award in the 'Large Company' category at the TLMI Converter Meeting held in Phoenix, AZ.

"Being recognized for the tenth consecutive year is truly a honor and testament to all the hard work our employees put into providing the best overall experience to our customers," added Joel Carmany, president of Consolidated Label. "It takes a lot team effort to consistently improve and grow our company."

TLMI President, Frank Sablone, comments "For the first time, a company has won the Eugene Singer Award for the tenth time and that company is Consolidated Label. Their unwavering dedication to their company, to the TLMI and to the greater narrow web industry is truly a benchmark we can all aspire to."

The TLMI Eugene Singer Awards, given since 1986, honors companies for excellence in business management as defined by an established set of growth and profitability ratios through the TLMI Management Ratio Study. Four awards are given each year in four company size categories: small, mid-range, medium, and large.

About Consolidated Label:

Founded in 1981, Consolidated Label is one of the country's leading suppliers of labels and flexible packaging. It produces labels and packaging for thousands of customers across a wide variety of industries including food, beverage, household products, medical, pharmaceutical, and promotional products.

For more information, visit www.consolidatedlabel.com.