Elite Security Services' recently introduced Elite Package is now one of the most preferred home security systems packages in the United States. It may be recalled that this package was unleashed to the market just a few month ago. This advanced security system provides the independence of enjoying the benefits of a top security package without a basic telephone line. This advantage has made the package an instant hit with households that have no landline telephone connection. This excellent package is available throughout America and Canada for a monthly fee of $44.95 only. Elite Security Services has two more popular packages known as the basic and premium plan.

Traditionally, home security systems used to transmit signals to the monitoring stations via landline telephone. As a result, it was pretty simple to deactivate them by disconnecting the phone connection. Moreover, only the households with a landline phone had access to these systems. This Elite Package is perfectly suited to provide round the clock protection in the true sense, even to the households without a basic phone line. This system uses the latest digital cellular technology to transmit signals, and therefore, basic telephones have nothing to do with them. Apart from this astounding feature, this package offers many more excellent benefits to users.

Talking about this advanced security system, one of the senior spokespersons of the company recently said, "Many households prefer not to have a landline phone these days. This package will help them secure their households. The households with a landline phone can ensure 24x7 surveillance throughout the year with our Elite Package". Official sources have revealed that the market demand for their home security systems has skyrocketed in the recent months, thanks mainly to this package.

About the Company: Elite Security Services is a rapidly growing company in the home security industry. They offer highly efficient and economical home security solutions in America and Canada.
