Jibwa is celebrating five years as Arizona's premier website, web application, training, and consulting company based in Tucson Arizona. In the spring of 2012 Jibwa is expanding its services and consulting into a full-service technology firm that builds and manages professional websites and web applications, and trains the IT staff of tomorrow to successfully manage and develop modern websites and business applications.

"Jibwa has primarily been a consulting and contract software development organization. We've built websites, engineering tools, medical practice management systems, and ecommerce solutions for billion dollar organizations." said Jibwa Founder and Chief Software Architect Joshua White. "What we have learned from our experience is that companies get the best results when they have a full service I.T. solutions partner. This is the year Jibwa becomes that partner."

As of April 1, 2012 Jibwa LLC is announcing the the addition of a sales and consulting office in Phoenix, Arizona, the relaunch of Jibwa.com, workforce training solutions, and new staffing and internship opportunities. "The expanded staffing and organization will allow us to bring Jibwa from a consulting group, to a full service IT solutions organization," continued Mr. White.

Partner and Business Development Manager Kory Leavitt: "Jibwa has spent a considerable amount of energy and time staying on top of the evolving world of technology and business trends. I've been working with other technology organizations for a long time, and what Jibwa has built is beyond ordinary. For me, growing Jibwa into the IT solutions organization of the future is truly exhilarating."

Jibwa is community focused and is announcing its summer internship program, and will be hiring additional full time staff members. At Jibwa, we build it.
