Foresight Intelligence® Suite

FORESIGHT®
INTELLIGENCE

The amount of information available for today's businesses is growing exponentially. It is the mission of Foresight Intelligence to help you make sense of all the information and to bring continous visibility to all facets of your businesses. Because enterprise information is displayed in an intuitive way, users can focus on understanding, managing and making the best decisions for their businesses instead of wading through cumbersome and difficult to understand analytics and reports.

Providing timely, accurate and relevant information so you can focus on what's important... running your business

True business intelligence solutions should have the ability to help you understand objectively what is going on and predict what may happen based on all available data. Foresight Intelligence® Suite empowers enterprises to effortlessly combine structured and unstructured data that can reside in many different places into a highly-interactive platform. The information can then be personalized to suit virtually any team member.

There are business intelligence solutions that can only be utilized by top level management because they require extensive training and support staff. Foresight Intelligence® Suite is easily used and analyzed at any level. Because our solution can be push out to any teir of your business, it empowers the users closest to the problem to identify and resolve issues instead of waiting until the problem has been recognized by upper management losing valuable time, resources and possible profits. Our solution ensures that all your users always have the most timely, accurate and relevant information with which to make the best business decisions.

> " This is the best tool we found to run our business. It has taken our basic business system and turned it into a super analytical tool that disseminates information that is very easy to get and very easy to analyze."

Foresight Intelligence® Suite Components

Foresight Intelligence® Center - interactive dashboard and visualization environment that displays data from many different sources and enables the user to control their direct handling with it.

Connect. Intelligence Center is built on the idea of connecting individuals and groups to the information most pertinent to their role. Foresight Intelligence® Center enables personalized views, access and reporting capabilities based on the role that individuals play within the organization. This gives each member of your team the needed information to work towards your company's unifed goals.

Converge. Perhaps the most powerful feature of Intelligence Center is its ability to combine data from many different sources to create panoramic views of the entire enterprise. Users can now aggregate data from any structured source – such as financial, operations, marketing/sales – and unstructured source – such as websites, RSS feeds and content residing in social media – to be able to make better decisions and predict certain business events.

Collaborate. In order to truly gain the benefits of Business Intelligence throughout the enterprise, all users must be able to participate in the process. That's why Intelligence Center is continously expanding the built-in collaboration features. Decision-makers can bring together the right people online and users can control content and flow of information instead of relying on a central IT group as a sole souce of content.

Foresight Intelligence® Financial Reporting System - enables users to easily design and view a wide range of financial reports. Powerful yet easy-to-use, the feature-rich reporting system enables users to easily design and view a wide range of financial reports with minimal training.

The built-in drilldown capabilities provide details layer by layer all the way to the actual GL transactions. Reports can be exported to popular spreadsheets or printed ad-hoc. With the advanced printing controls, users can print in various paper sizes, manage margins and place additional information into headers and footers.

Foresight Intelligence® Alerts - to track business activity, Alerts display predefined messages when specific trigger events occur. Setting alerts allow you to move on to other important activities and allows you to make quick desicions now. In addition to seeing the alerts on the screen, you can also subscribe to receive them via e-mail or text message.

> " We are looking forward to leveraging Foresight as a means of significantly reducing the time it takes to create mission-critical reports..."
