

Pet Lovers Hail Elite Security Services for the Introduction of Advanced Motion Detector to their Home Security Systems.

The home security systems packages offered by Elite Security Services would now be accompanied by highly advanced pet friendly motion detector equipment. The launch of this device has been appreciated by the domestic security enthusiasts, particularly those who love pets. The device would be available throughout Canada and America with all three packages from Elite Security Services.

The American and Canadian households with pets can now enjoy the benefits of pet friendly home security systems, thanks to Elite Security Services. The company has just added a sophisticated motion detector device to their packages that can differentiate between the human and non human movements. Elite Security Services is one of the latest companies to have entered the domestic security industry in this part of the world and has been providing excellent security service to their customers so far. The company is owned by noted home protection consultant Mr. Paul Shakuri. His knowledge, experience, and inspirational leadership have been highly instrumental behind the success of Elite Security Services.

Motion detection devices are generally found in all standard home security systems. However, most of them often tend to sound false alarms when pets move around them because they can not differentiate their movements from that of human beings. This has been a serious problem for families that have pets. Elite Security Services have come up with a solution for this problem with their advanced detection system that restricts false alarms by identifying movements of pets weighing 80 lbs or less. This excellent device is now being offered by Elite Security Services with all three service plans from them.

Moments after the official launch of the device, Mr. Shakuri stated, "We expect this enhancement to help the homeowners who have pets in their house. Install this device and say goodbye to false alarms forever". Apart from this new device, the home security systems from them offer a plethora of the latest security devices with all their packages. The basic home protection package from Elite Security Services is available for a monthly rental of only $35.99 and a one time installation charge of $99.00. They also provide free next day installation on request of the customers.

About the Company: Elite Security Services is a rapidly growing company in the home security industry. They offer highly efficient and economical home security solutions in America and Canada.
