

Elite Security Services Introduces Back up Power Technology to Keep Their Home Security Systems Functioning During Power Outage.

The popular home security systems manufacturer in the United States, Elite Security Services, has just introduced back up power technology to their domestic protection systems. This technology will keep their security systems active even when there is no power available. Elite Security Services provides their economical security service in Canada and America.

The customers of Elite Security Services can now receive round the clock protection from their home security systems irrespective of availability of home power supply. The company has just introduced a new technology called back up power supply system to all their service plans. Elite Security Services is now a familiar name in Canada and America, thanks to their high performance and low cost security solutions for residential use. Their home protection plans provide comprehensive protection to users starting from only $35.99 per month. The inclusion of the back up power technology would certainly make them an even more formidable player in the security market.

Traditional home security systems generally derive the necessary power from the home power supply. This has been a concern for many house owners for years because the entire system shuts down when there is no power. Therefore, the job becomes much easier for the miscreants simply by disconnecting the domestic power supply line. The technology introduced by Elite Security Services derives its power from an independent back up battery when the primary source of power is not available. This is an extremely important feature because many burglar attacks take place during power cuts.

During the official launch of this new feature, an elated owner of Elite Security Services Mr. Paul Shakuri stated, "This battery back up system is one of the latest advancements in the industry. It feels great to be able to offer this technology to you with all our packages". Mr. Shakuri is a distinguished home security systems expert in this region and has designed tons of security systems so far. The addition of this new technology has been welcomed with great enthusiasm by the customers of the company.

About the Company: Elite Security Services is a rapidly growing company in the home security industry. They offer highly efficient and economical home security solutions in America and Canada.
