COLOGIX EXPANDS IN DALLAS INFOMART

Network Neutral Interconnection and Colocation Leader to Add 12,000 SQF of Tier 3 Data Center Space to Meet Growing Demand

Denver, Colorado – April 12, 2012 – Cologix™, a network neutral interconnection and colocation company, today announced the expansion of their Dallas InfoMart (1950 North Stemmons Freeway) footprint to 40,000 square feet. The addition of 12,000 square feet of Tier 3 data center space will accommodate growing demand for colocation solutions that require dense connectivity. The data center will include over 300 new cabinets and is scheduled to be ready for service in Q3 2012.

"This expansion reflects our commitment to the Dallas market and responds to the demand we see from our current and potential Dallas customers," stated Grant van Rooyen, Chief Executive Officer, Cologix. "Networks continue to demand space in our Dallas facility to meet bandwidth requirements and our non-network customers appreciate the broad range of cost-effective network choices we offer."

This new data center embraces industry-leading technology by leveraging hot-aisle containment and in-row cooling to ensure the critical support systems are at the highest standard in reliability, redundancy and efficiency. The new data center expansion enables customers to easily access all the networks presented in the Cologix Meet-Me-Room. Cologix's existing data center encompasses 28,000 square feet and was recently augmented to add power capacity in order to meet Cologix's rigorous operational and security standards.
