LARGO, FLORIDA – "Rep" DeLoach, estate planning attorney at DeLoach + Hofstra, will be offering a free workshop to people of all ages to get fully prepared for their senior years. The Workshop is April 12th at Oak Manor Senior Living Facility.

Estate planning is something that most put off for years – assuming they plan at all. However, creating an estate plan that includes a will or trust, medical directive and living will is imperative to senior planning, is relatively simple for a properly trained attorney, and can be fairly inexpensive, depending on an individual's needs. At the workshop, Rep will explain the documents that everyone should have in place and give some tips and suggestions for ways to protect your assets should you ever need to use Medicaid.

"Planning for your senior years is one of the best gifts you can give your family," says Rep. "When a loved one becomes incapacitated due to age or illness, the family will have their hands full dealing with emotional issues. With our Life Care Plan services and proper estate planning in place, the caregiver can focus on what's important and not worry about the legal, financial and healthcare issues."

Another important topic covered in the workshop is recent changes in rules related to Power of Attorney documents. The Power of Attorney is a critical document in which you can identify the person who will assume responsibility for your finances if you should you become incapacitated. It is important to understand exactly what the Power of Attorney can and cannot do and all of the responsibilities of your designated representative before you decide who that person should be.

The workshop is open to everyone and it will be held at the Oak Manor Senior Living Facility at 3600 Oak Manor Lane. The workshop begins at 11am and you must reserve your seat by calling 727-581-9427.
