CyberMetrics Hosts a New Series of Free Seminars and Webinars.

Phoenix, AZ – April 19, 2012 – CyberMetrics Corporation begins a series of free, informative webinars and seminars to educate facilities maintenance and instrument calibration professionals about real-world industry solutions. Learning how to pass quality audits, strategizing for successful CMMS deployment and making the move to cloud computing are just a few of the most recent topics.

“Our brief webinars and seminars allow us to reach a broad audience with sharply focused topics that benefit maintenance and quality managers and make their jobs easier,” says Chris Richardson, Sales Manager. “We want to make sure that our customers and prospective customers alike make informed decisions about their software solutions to maximize their productivity and their profits.”

The schedule of upcoming seminars and webinars is available on the CyberMetrics website and is growing every day, so be sure to check back often for new topics. <http://www.cybermetrics.com>
