New Looks – Fresh Colors in Modern Gas Fireplaces

MALDEN, Massachusetts (May 1, 2012) European Home has released colored interiors and surrounds for their contemporary Vision gas fireplace. In 2005, European Home brought the stainless interior to the fireplace marketplace. Home owners, architects and designers love the effect the stainless offers in that when the fire is not running, the fireplace is not so dark. Now, European Home is taking this a step further by offering additional looks.

Released in these color combinations:

Red, White and Blue – to show what can be done. The modern Vision gas fireplace is dressed up for the holidays with a red concrete surround, white Dover fire stones and blue interior. By showing this, European Home wants customers to think outside the box and see that themed colors in a fireplace are a possibility.

Blue and Stainless – this striking combination shows cobalt blue interior panels with a stainless steel seamless surround. Stainless steel, quickly becoming timeless in modern homes, is combined with eye-catching color for a splash of fun in this modern fireplace.

White on White – who doesn't appreciate a monochrome color scheme? Often considered subtly bold, this monochromatic look has not been seen by a US fireplace manufacturer before. The look is achieved by using bisque white interior panels with a limestone-white concrete surround. The flames look beautiful as they come through the natural looking fire stones.

Black and White – This updated black interior is achieved with black enamel which creates a glossy, reflective look. Combined with a limestone-white concrete surround and white Dover fire stones, it combines modern updates to timeless elegance.

The modern Vision fireplace is designed by UK fireplace designer, Gavin Scott Design, and produced in New Hampshire, USA by European Home. It is available with an open front as a vented or ventless gas fireplace.
