

A child with all the promise a parent could hope for becomes a severe addict. A father pulls out all the stops to help him, oftentimes at the emotional expense of the rest of his family. Ups and downs, good times and bad, with lots of tears and prayers in between. Searching for something—anything—that might make a difference. In the end, all seems lost. My child, my son, lost his life to drug addiction. No one can comprehend the pain unless they have experienced it themselves. There is a hole in your heart that can never be healed. All seemed lost, including my faith. God, however, never gave up on me. Through his amazing grace, He took me to heaven. I saw my son. I saw Jesus, and He spoke to me. I literally received a hug from God. This is my son's story. This is my story.

Jerry Haney is a retired educator with thirty years of service in the Manatee County, Florida, school system. Those years were dedicated to molding the lives of middle school children, as a classroom teacher and administrator. After retiring, he also spent nearly two years volunteering to help the homeless at the One Stop Center in Bradenton, Florida. I Didn't Cry Today is Jerry's first endeavor into the world of writing.
