

Who is Concussion Health?

Concussion Health enables hospitals, outpatient clinics, and sports organizations to expand their concussion management services. A team of experts have integrated multi-disciplinary approaches into web-based tools that are practical and affordable. Concussion Health also has a Scientific Advisory Team comprised of practitioners in the following areas: athletic training, audiology, exercise physiology, primary care, neurology, neuropsychology, otolaryngology, physical therapy and visual retraining therapy.

What does Concussion Health offer?

Concussion Health provides web-based tools that support best practices in concussion management with the following services:

- Education Training – series of videos followed by a competency based exam
- Sample Clinical Algorithms – information from baseline to sideline to post-injury to rehabilitation for comprehensive concussion management
- Resource Tools – sample evaluations, treatment plans, and return to play (RTP) protocols that also include exertional, balance, cognitive and visual exercises; community forum and “ask & answer” to serve as ongoing resources

How does Concussion Health aid in return to play (RTP) decisions?

The cornerstone of Concussion Health is education. We are not a specific test. We do not make RTP decisions. We understand that no tool should be used in isolation. Thus, we strive to streamline a variety of tools (computerized and non-computerized) to aid healthcare providers throughout the RTP process. Our goal is to provide a solution in the knowledge transfer process in an effort to link all individuals involved in the athlete’s care, supporting a multi-disciplinary team approach for RTP decisions.

Frequently Asked Questions

How do I become Concussion Health certified?

Concussion Health certification is a competency based course. After successfully completing the series of videos and online examination by Concussion Health, you will receive a competency based certificate.

Who certifies me?

The competency based certificate is offered through Concussion Health and is based on current best practices as defined by leading experts, including our Scientific Advisory Committee and Education Advisory Committee.

What if I don't pass the examination?

You have the opportunity to repeat the examination and will receive support from the Concussion Health team to maximize successful completion of the requirements.

Can I receive credits towards my professional continuing education requirements?

Currently, the course work is approved for athletic trainers and physical therapists within the majority of the United States. The course work is pending approval for physicians and allied healthcare providers.

Will I have continued support after successfully completing the examination?

Yes, you will receive support for 1 year. During that time, you have access to online support through blogs, media outreach, and standard upgrades.

How much does it cost?

The cost varies on the number of individuals becoming certified and the type of organization. The cost decreases per individual as the number of registrants increases. Sports organizations and school systems have a different pricing model. For more information, contact us at 800-406-5080.
