Meet the Founders

Brian Southard and Anthony Delmedico launched Abelard Construction in 1997 and bring over 20 years of experience in commercial and residential construction, restoration, and best practices in construction management to the industry. Abelard Construction operates in 17 states and is the premier residential and commercial restoration firm in the Midwest. Anthony and Brian work closely with engineers, subcontractors, architects, inspectors, designers, and agents to ensure a smooth and successful project, every time.

Anthony Delmedico and Brian Southard are the owners of Abelard Construction.

Brian Southard is a Colorado native. A graduate of Ft. Collins High School, he then enrolled at the Virginia Military Institute, moved back to Colorado and started a business development company in Denver before launching Abelard Construction in 2000. Brian is a licensed general contractor in the state of Colorado and has been serving thousands of property owners with their residential and commercial restoration and construction needs over the last 12 years. Abelard is proud to help Colorado property owners with their residential and commercial construction and restoration needs up and down the front range.

Whether you have a residential roofing emergency, need new siding/ gutters or require water, flood, mold or fire damage restoration, Abelard is poised to help. Abelard Construction can do anything from roofing, siding, windows, paint, gutters to rebuilding an entire house after major catastrophes such as hurricanes, tornadoes and hailstorms. We service commercial and residential properties throughout the country.
