

On Graduation Day, You are the Guest of Honor

Ashworth students live, work and study all over the world. But they come together to celebrate their achievements on one special day – Graduation Day.

Each year, Ashworth graduates travel from across the country and around the world to participate in their graduation ceremony alongside their faculty and fellow classmates.

It's a proud day. With family and friends present, Ashworth College and James Madison High School graduates march across the stage to receive their diplomas – and the crowd's acclaim – one by one.

“Today is a celebration of your success and your education is a contribution to helping you find your great passion in life.”
